EITHER WOOD OR HOOVER

New York "Tribune" Editorial Dissects Johnson and Makes Summary.

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)
NEW YORK, April 23.—In a leading editorial published in the New York Tribune, the Tribune, after declaring that Johnson was voted for in Michigan by the elements which declared in 1916 for Henry Ford for the Presidency, and that Johnson's Nebraska vote was due to the pro-German irreconcilables, says there is small probability of Johnson receiving the nomination at the Chicago convention.

The Tribune declares that if the nominee is not Leonard Wood, Hoover is the other candidate "whose name commands that diffused and nationalized support which seems essential in the Republican candidate this year." The Tribune editorial is as follows:

"The fact that Senator Johnson, who has the friendship of the pro-Germans who are especially numerous in the State, is not likely to increase the chances of his nomination, or to decrease the chances of Gen. Wood in Nebraska, as in Michigan, Senator Johnson is not fortunate in the character of his support in Michigan.

"He was voted for by the elements which declared in 1916, for Henry Ford for the Presidency. In Nebraska he has the friendship of the pro-Germans who are especially numerous in the State.

"Anyone acquainted with the distribution of Nebraska's population will be struck in the returns with the Johnson strength in the German counties.

"To help of Pro-German irreconcilables, the Senator clearly owes his Nebraska victory. The Republican National Convention is not likely to be a body whose majority will vote for any candidate who is backed by radicals of a revolutionary or an extreme pacifist type. It is not likely to be a body whose majority will vote for any candidate who is backed by radicals of a revolutionary or an extreme pacifist type.

"If we can return without loss of dignity, without loss of our seniority rights and if our organization is recognized by the roads and our salary demands are granted, we will go back to work at once," he said.

The railroad announced that traffic conditions in the Chicago district were 33 per cent. of normal.

CALIFORNIA MAY BE SIXTH STATE IN INCOME AND EXCESS PROFITS.

(BY A. P. DAY WIRE.)
SAN FRANCISCO, April 23.—Internal revenue executives here expressed the belief today that California would be sixth in point of collections of income and excess profits taxes when the 1919 returns are tabulated. Total returns for the year were expected to exceed 200,000, as paid returns numbered 114,000; this year they will reach 150,000. Despite the reduction of the normal tax rate from 6 and 12 per cent. to 4 and 8 per cent., the total collections will not fall far short of last year's collections, it was announced.

PREMIER OF ITALY FORECASTS ASIATIC WAR AS A RESULT

(BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
SAN REMO, April 23.—"You will have a war in Asia Minor, and Italy will not send a single soldier nor pay a single lire," said Signor Nitti, Italian Premier, in an interview today following a critical analysis by him of the Turkish peace treaty.

PARIS, April 23.—The Supreme Council at its meeting Saturday will discuss the provision for the fixing of a definite sum or repatriation in the German treaty, which Lloyd George, British Prime Minister, has been urging.

Armenia is to be created an independent State. This decision was reported by the Supreme Council of the Allies today because neither the United States nor any other power was willing to accept a mandate over the country.

The boundaries of Armenia have not yet been defined and the new republic will be rather contracted, as it is believed that the smaller the country the more easily can it take care of itself, because if too many Turks are left within its confines, they might overthrow the government.

The comment of those in close relation with the council is that the League of Nations has been rather slightly treated respecting Armenia. The council sent a somewhat vague letter to the League asking it to take the mandate. The League executives, at a meeting in Paris, replied favorably, but called attention to the fact that it had no funds and no staff, suggesting that the council should furnish the international law guaranteed by the powers composing the council.

The council was also requested to appoint the Turkish forces from the borders of the new state. These proposals have not been accepted by the council, which thus declines to avail itself of the League as a suitable mandatory.

It is understood that if the League has been presented with money it might have arranged with neutral governments to exercise the mandate under supervision of the League. The smaller powers, so many of whom are Canada, especially, and if Canada does not accept, then Sweden or Spain.

The council leaves Syria under the suzerainty of Turkey, but places the city and province under the administration of Greece. The Turkish treaty has been almost finished by the council. Premier Nitti gave his opinion of the treaty to the press. He said to the council:

"I am constrained to tell you that the treaty, to my mind, is a more imperfect production than anything I have ever seen. It is not an allied question. It has already been decided that as the Allies were not at war with Russia, each ally

MISSOURI REJECTS REED

Anti-League Senator Unseated as Delegate After Riotous Session.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)
JOPLIN (Mo.), April 23.—The Democratic State Convention, in session here this morning, voted to reject the nomination of United States Senator James A. Reed as district delegate to the national convention and to replace his name in the Fifth District caucus, which concluded this morning.

The vote 1070 to 490, four-fifths, in order to give women equal representation with men.

The delegates were not instructed as to Presidential preference, the question not coming before the convention. Each of the sixteen Congressional districts named two delegates and two alternates to the San Francisco convention. Rejection of Senator Reed's name, however, automatically eliminated that of his alternate, Judge James Bradshaw of Kansas City. It was ruled, leaving the total accredited delegates and alternates at thirty-one each.

All the delegates are bound by resolutions to support the League of Nations covenant without destructive reservations, and to vote for David R. Francis of St. Louis for the Vice-Presidential nomination.

BANISHMENT FOR CAILLAUX

(BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
PARIS, April 23.—The sentence decided upon by the high court for former Premier Caillaux, it was learned this afternoon, besides three years imprisonment and payment of the costs of the trial, includes banishment for five years and loss of civic rights for ten years.

Opinions differ regarding the termination of Caillaux's prison sentence. The evening papers hold that the three-year term has already expired and the condemned man should be released tomorrow, when his banishment should begin.

Maitre Demange, Caillaux's counsel, is a veteran of the French bar and the defender of Prince Bonaparte at Ajaccio in 1819 and of Dreyfus at Rennes in 1899. Commenting on the Caillaux case, he said: "I am grieved that in the declining days of my career I have tried to serve justice without finding it."

M. Demange is 86 years old. The text of the verdict against Caillaux has been finished and will be read to him tonight and then read publicly at an open session of the court.

INDICT HOVLEY AS A "SLAVER"

Indictment by Federal Grand Jury Follows Local Hearing.

Blackmail Charges Denied Girl and Her Husband.

At the conclusion of the session of the Federal grand jury, yesterday, it was reported by the office of the United States Attorney, and afterwards confirmed by Lyndol L. Young, attorney for Peter P. STILL RUNNING.
The Socialists are once more going to nominate Eugene Debs for President; but how can a man run with a ball and chain on his leg?

ON PROMISES.
After all, Mitchell Palmer is the most promising candidate the Democrats can offer. Half a dozen times he promised to reduce the high cost of living and the dog-dog fight makes him keep on promising.

PERHAPS PROGRESS.
At a banquet of the Nebraska Society in Washington Gen. Pershing made the first announcement that he would permit himself to be considered as a candidate for the Presidency. The indications are, however, that the people would prefer to see him at the head of the army and as a soldier rather than a civilian.

THE DIVINE SARAH.
Sarah Bernhardt at the age of 50 is challenging another farewell tour of America this fall. It says she needs the money it would be better to pass the hat and let the Americans remember her as she was. She doesn't have to stage a come-back. As an octogenarian with one leg she should prefer to cherish the past rather than trade upon the future.

ELECTION FUNDS.
Senator Borah's "reform bill" provides that not more than $10,000 shall be spent in any one State on behalf of a candidate in a Presidential primary. This, however, does not include the personal expenses of the candidate, which might in some cases run up to almost as much more. But at $10,000 a State a man could blow in a million dollars and still not cut much of a figure. It is hardly fair to put the States on an equal basis as to the amount of money to be expended. With $10,000 a candidate could give the Nevada voters almost a dollar apiece, while in New York he couldn't even send them a postal card. Why not do away with the frank Presidential primary altogether and save the money and honor of everybody?

THE DISCONTENTED.
The new Liberal party expects to put a full ticket in the field in Missouri and several other States. The party is made up of the radicals and discontented of other organizations. It will swallow the Non-partisan League if possible and will enlist the support of labor and the Communists. The single-taxers and Socialists are to be included in fact, any man with a wild idea and a grudge against the Republican or Democratic organization will be given the right hand of fellowship and a front seat. Whether a fellow wants to blow up the government with dynamite or a bicycle pump will be made welcome. If he can raise his voice better than his arm he will still be a desirable. This would be a fine party for Hiram Johnson, who is also an arch-enemy of discontent. He can have the nomination if he will but say the word.

ASYMPATHETIC SOUL.
A woman writes a place for the papers telling her broad-minded and sympathetic Johnson is. This comes as a rather surprising discovery, even to the Senator and his best friends. Hiram has rather prided himself on having a blunt and compact mind, not to be swayed by sympathy. It is conceded by his admirers that he is self-centered and egotistical—that his motto is Johnson or nothing and that he exacts that his followers work for him and not merely for the cause or principles he represents. The character of the Johnson delegation picked for the National Republican Convention demonstrates this. The majority of them are heartily opposed to Johnson's ideas and attitude toward the important national questions, yet they are to do duty as rubber stamps to register the Johnson wish and will. Hiram is about as broad-minded and sympathetic as a wall-eyed pig.

CHURCH MEMBERS REJOICE.
An unusual event and an occasion for great rejoicing among the members of the First Presbyterian Church of Los Angeles will be the dedication of the church building tomorrow, almost a quarter of a century after it was built. Dedication exercises have been deferred from time to time because of a large debt incurred at the time of building, which has existed in varying amounts until now, when the last dollar has been paid.

This church, the oldest Presbyterian church in the city, is to be congratulated on its great growth in strength and membership in the past two and a half years since Dr. Hugh K. Walker became its pastor. A tower of strength to any church with which he might be connected and one of the ablest pulpits in Southern California, Dr. Walker found the organization at a low ebb in membership and finances. Working with the members of the First Church have labored steadily and quietly until the membership has been trebled and the indebtedness cancelled.

Without blare of trumpets or spectacular "drives" or great press agents, the work of the church has been crowned with abundant fruitage. In dedicating the building and contemplating the increased membership those who have labored so faithfully will find great joy tomorrow.

JOHNSON CANNOT WIN.
There is nothing but stimulus and encouragement for the loyal Hoover workers of California in the results of the direct primary elections in the group of Middle West States that became notorious during the war by reason of the disloyalty of their heavy foreign-born populations. Senator Johnson has not carried a State to date that was not disgraced by riots against the enforcement of the conscription act and by pacifist demonstrations; and, what is equally significant, he has not received a majority of the Republican vote—or anything near a majority in any State that he has carried.

In Michigan Senator Johnson received 154,939 votes in the Presidential preference primary; Gen. Wood received 113,556 votes; Gov. Lowden received 62,418; Hoover received 53,503 votes; Gen. Pershing, 37,971 votes. Senator Johnson made his appeal to the pro-German, pro-Russian and radical electors; and they voted for him en masse. He told the pro-Germans the peace treaty was unjust. He told the pro-Russians that this government should have recognized the Bolshevik government as soon as it was in temporary power. He would have had the white hand of the Goddess of Liberty clasp the blood-stained fingers of Lenin and Trotsky. He told the radicals that the campaign of the Department of Justice against Bolshevism was an attempt at class tyranny. He told the Plumb Plan Leaguers that he favored government ownership of the railroads. He figured that if he could capitalize the discontent in Michigan he could win against a divided opposition. He won; but the price of that victory was to carry the brand of the only candidate in either party who is bidding for radical and pro-German support.

That no candidate wearing such a brand can win in the Republican convention is self-evident. The Republican party has not gone Bolshevik and is not likely to do so.

Senator Johnson's success in Nebraska was obtained under similar conditions. In Nebraska 34,000 men registered for the primaries this year giving Germany as their birthplace. Senator Johnson's vote, as reported by the Associated Press Friday, was 41,753. He won in the direct primary because the loyal Republican vote was divided between Gen. Wood and Gen. Pershing. Gen. Wood carried one Congress district and the delegates from that district have announced that they will vote for him in the convention.

J. G. BULLOCK.
Upon what must do this, our fear of Japanese armed invasion, feed that it has grown so great in parts of the East that there is an outcry against anti-Japanese land laws in California, lest it lead to war? Modern wars are economic conflicts, and the United States would have no more to fear from Japan in an economic conflict than Jack Dempsey would have from a 12-year-old schoolboy in a prize ring. In fact, the disparity is even greater.

There may be some Doubting Thomases among the readers of The Times who are wont to permit imagination to encroach upon judgment. For their benefit we call attention to comparative estimates of the imports and exports of the two countries for the month of March and for combinations of months.

Exhibit "A" is an Associated Press dispatch to The Times from Washington, dated April 20:

The State Department gave out this statement late today, based on information from the Embassy at Tokyo: There has been some stringency here in the money market because of a shortage of currency and due to adverse balance of trade. The excess of imports during the first three months of 1920 was $130,000,000, equal to 50 per cent of the total exports.

We will just remark in passing that this information that "there has been a stringency in the money market because of a shortage of currency" is quoted from an official statement issued by Secretary of State Colby. The logic is unanswerable. Now for another dispatch from the same source and on the same day:

Although the imports in March reached a new high monthly record of $144,000,000, the balance of trade in favor of the United States increased $234,000,000. Balanced against these record imports were exports of $280,000,000. This brought the exports for nine months ending with March to $2,651,000,000 and left a trade balance for the nine months of $332,000,000.

Compare Japan's exports for March of $100,000,000 with $280,000,000 for the United States and you have a pretty fair estimate of how the two countries would stack up in a modern economic conflict. If it is a question of surrendering the soil of California to the Japanese peaceful invaders or a clash between the two countries, which many think inevitable, it is better to let the clash come at a time when our economic strength is so superior to that of Japan that the issue would never be in doubt. In the words of Patrick Henry, "When shall we be stronger?" In this connection it is well to remember that the assessed valuation in 1916 of all real and personal property in Japan was $15,000,000,000, while that of the United States was $150,000,000,000—about the same proportion as that of the exports of the two countries.

Japan's financial stringency, moreover, is but an incident of the business weakness and depression of old established values, spreading all over the world.

World finance seems to have been too intricate a problem for the Japanese financiers, manufacturers and merchants to solve. Japan suffered no financial losses by reason of the war, yet she finds her industries involved in a crisis. That America is maintaining its financial and trade supremacy, despite the billions we expended on the war and the bunting at Washington, is a high tribute to the genius and foresight of the business men of the United States. They have performed marvels; but the limit of even their endurance may shortly be reached if the union workers continue their strikes and sabotage and all classes persist in the present orgy of extravagance.

HUNT FOR HARMONY.
James Hamilton Lewis, who is a Democratic candidate for the nomination for the Vice-Presidency, has been making a tour of the East. He must have looked upon the cola when it was moving itself right, judging from some of the things he reports. He says that in New England the Republican leaders have a harmony programme to present. They want a combination of Lodge for President and Lowden for Vice-President. They say that Lodge represents the Republican majority idea on the League of Nations, while Lowden stands for business security. It also would put Massachusetts and Illinois on the ticket together for the first time in history. But Lewis saw something different in New York. There, he says, he found a number of Republican leaders who wanted to make up a ticket with Justice Charles E. Hughes for President and Hiram Johnson for Vice-President. They charge that Johnson defeated Hughes in 1916 and if he expects to be recognized as a decent Republican now he would turn in and help elect him. Johnson is recognized as a radical, but as Vice-President could not be very dangerous. It was proposed in New York that Hughes would be nominated through the influence of union labor, he having become the counselor for the miners' union.

If this New York programme is in the interest of harmony there wouldn't be very much of it in the ticket itself. Hiram would see to that. As a tail-end he would insist on turning the ticket around and backing into the White House. Hiram was never strong for harmony, anyhow. He would rather be a burr on the tail of the Republican party than dwell in the tents of the righteous. To harness him up with a well-bred traveler like Hughes would be impossible. He would look funnier than he would asleep in the same bed with Will Crocker. Hiram is the man who would put the harm in harmony, all right. His idea of harmony is to be one of these one-man bands, playing half a dozen instruments himself and competing with the battle of Gettysburg.

Problem in High Finance.
A meal is no longer merely a meal—it is a problem in high finance.—[Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.]

convention, so will they fare in the Republican National Convention, irrespective of whether California votes white or red.

Even the Hearst papers, Johnson's radical and pro-German allies, are beginning to admit that Senator Johnson has no show in the Republican convention and are predicting that he can be elected on an independent ticket. They figure that the advertising he gets in the Republican movement will help him in the third-party movement. In his column in the Examiner of last Friday Arthur Brisbane wrote: "A member of the Cabinet said to this writer last Thursday: 'The Republicans will never nominate Johnson. Ten minutes in the cloakroom of the Senate would make that clear to you.' Brisbane adds: 'Johnson is the kind to go to the Chicago Republican convention himself and talk as a delegate. What would the delegates reply if Johnson said: 'The voters of this country have already nominated me. You do the same, if you don't want to see me elected on an independent ticket?'"

IV.
THERE is the walk-out, staged in advance by Senator Johnson's newspaper backers. There is the economic conflict in which California will become that bedded if it makes the mistake of turning its delegation to the Republican convention over to Johnson and Hearst. The Hearst-Johnson forces tested his strength against a single opposition ticket in the State of New York. There the issue of red and white was clearly posed; and the Reds lost by a vote of nearly three to one. Johnson is not even running in the Massachusetts and Pennsylvania primaries, his backers being convinced that he would be hopelessly beaten.

It is from great States like New York, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania that the Hoover workers of California draw their inspiration; and not from the Bolshevik group in the Middle West. The results of the primaries and conventions in the East and Middle West are showing clearly the cleavage in the campaign. Wherever the Reds and pro-Germans are strong Senator Johnson is strong; wherever they are weak Johnson is weak.

JAPAN'S SLUMP.
Upon what must do this, our fear of Japanese armed invasion, feed that it has grown so great in parts of the East that there is an outcry against anti-Japanese land laws in California, lest it lead to war? Modern wars are economic conflicts, and the United States would have no more to fear from Japan in an economic conflict than Jack Dempsey would have from a 12-year-old schoolboy in a prize ring. Bignins is a pretty stubborn guy, clever all right, but stubborn. For the past ten years I have had a certain idea as to what Robert Browning was driving at when he wrote his poem, "Childe Roland to the Dark Tower Came."

I arrived at my conclusion after considerable study and much reading and re-reading of the work mentioned and yet when I explained my idea at some length to Bignins he said that I was wrong and he went on and explained what he figured the bard meant to say.

I told him I had carried my idea unshaken for ten years. He said that that didn't make any difference, he had too. Well, we talked back and forth, getting nowhere, until he said: "Let's leave it to ouija."

He had been getting some remarkable strength from the little board, as I know, so that night after supper I went down to his house and we tried our luck.

"Good evening, ouija," said Bignins. "Good evening, ouija," said Bignins. "Here he is," said ouija. "Just what did you mean, Mr. Browning?" said Bignins. "By your poem about Childe Roland and the dark tower?" "Blest if I know," said the spirit. "I didn't know what it meant when I wrote it." THREE, FALL.

LONGEST FRENCH SENTENCE.
French prose affords a parallel to the long-drawn-out sentence by Hazlitt mentioned in "Miscellany." In the seventh volume of the elder Dumas' "Impressions de Voyage" there is a sentence dealing with Benvenuto Cellini which spreads over three pages and totals 107 lines. It contains 195 verbs, 122 proper names, 68 commas and 60 semicolons. This, according to Mr. Charles Nauroy, is the longest sentence in the French language. Evidently neither Hazlitt nor Dumas would have informed Mr. Frederic Harrison's advice to literary aspirants. "It is a good rule for a young writer," says Mr. Harrison, "to avoid more than twenty or thirty words without a full stop, and not to put more than two commas in each sentence, so that its clauses should not exceed three. There is no positive law. A fine writer can easily place in a sentence a hundred words, and five or six minor clauses with their proper commas and colons. Ruskin was wont to toss off two or three hundred words and twenty-five commas without a pause."—[Manchester Guardian.]

"The air we breathe is cheaper than anything there is; custodian or keeper can't say. 'The price has risen!' We hear no far-fetched wheezes from profiteering gents, explaining that the breezes have gone up fifty cents. 'The stock of wind's exhausted,' no doubt they'd promptly say, if they should be accosted, to fix the price today. Grown tired of endless railing at things that cost me dear, I stand outdoors inhaling a lot of atmosphere. I work my ancient bellows in ecstasy and gleo; no greedy, swinish fellows can charge it up to me. Oh, for the love of Peter, let's breathe it and endorse! No corporation's meter will measure what we use. Some day they'll learn to cinch us and tax us for the air, and cops will come and pinch us if we exceed our share; but in the balmy present they hardly dare to try; the breezes, sweet and pleasant, are free to every guy. Some day you'll get your zephyr through rusty pipes, like gas, not as the care-free heifer that gambols in the grass. Some day a grim collector will climb your creaking stair, will come, a grisly specter, to tax you for the air." WALT MASON.

French prose affords a parallel to the long-drawn-out sentence by Hazlitt mentioned in "Miscellany." In the seventh volume of the elder Dumas' "Impressions de Voyage" there is a sentence dealing with Benvenuto Cellini which spreads over three pages and totals 107 lines. It contains 195 verbs, 122 proper names, 68 commas and 60 semicolons. This, according to Mr. Charles Nauroy, is the longest sentence in the French language. Evidently neither Hazlitt nor Dumas would have informed Mr. Frederic Harrison's advice to literary aspirants. "It is a good rule for a young writer," says Mr. Harrison, "to avoid more than twenty or thirty words without a full stop, and not to put more than two commas in each sentence, so that its clauses should not exceed three. There is no positive law. A fine writer can easily place in a sentence a hundred words, and five or six minor clauses with their proper commas and colons. Ruskin was wont to toss off two or three hundred words and twenty-five commas without a pause."—[Manchester Guardian.]

RIPLING RHYMES.
FREE AIR.
"The air we breathe is cheaper than anything there is; custodian or keeper can't say. 'The price has risen!' We hear no far-fetched wheezes from profiteering gents, explaining that the breezes have gone up fifty cents. 'The stock of wind's exhausted,' no doubt they'd promptly say, if they should be accosted, to fix the price today. Grown tired of endless railing at things that cost me dear, I stand outdoors inhaling a lot of atmosphere. I work my ancient bellows in ecstasy and gleo; no greedy, swinish fellows can charge it up to me. Oh, for the love of Peter, let's breathe it and endorse! No corporation's meter will measure what we use. Some day they'll learn to cinch us and tax us for the air, and cops will come and pinch us if we exceed our share; but in the balmy present they hardly dare to try; the breezes, sweet and pleasant, are free to every guy. Some day you'll get your zephyr through rusty pipes, like gas, not as the care-free heifer that gambols in the grass. Some day a grim collector will climb your creaking stair, will come, a grisly specter, to tax you for the air." WALT MASON.

Oh, a woman's heart to love is prone And a woman is weak and apt to lean Toward new love once the old love's gone And a sailor's visits are far between. Annabel said she'd never forget And Joyce she sobbed as she bade good-by. And Susan vowed with chin firm set, And Mary swore for me she'd die. But Annabel, Joyce, Sue, Marie, I wonder if they're true to me.

Bignins is a pretty stubborn guy, clever all right, but stubborn. For the past ten years I have had a certain idea as to what Robert Browning was driving at when he wrote his poem, "Childe Roland to the Dark Tower Came."

I arrived at my conclusion after considerable study and much reading and re-reading of the work mentioned and yet when I explained my idea at some length to Bignins he said that I was wrong and he went on and explained what he figured the bard meant to say.

Senorita! Senorita!
Hearken to the love bird's call

Climb unto the time-worn wall
Weave a mystic of our love
Senorita! Senorita!

RESIGN? BUNK!
—CHIEF HOME.

Head of Police Department Declares He'll Continue to be on the Job.

Home-manufactured rumors screamed abroad by an afternoon newspaper yesterday to the effect that George Home will shortly resign as Chief of Police were branded the veriest bunk by Chief Home himself last night. "I have absolutely no intention of quitting," said he. "That cannot be made too emphatic."

Chief Home and Mayor Snyder conferred at the Mayor's office late yesterday afternoon. The Mayor said later that the subject was not mentioned, but that there is no thought in his mind of the Chief's resigning.

HARBOR DEVELOPMENT
WAITS ON BOND SALE.

Commerce Chamber Lays Off Promotion Work While Council Hunts Bids.

Urging that the City Council take speedy action in selling $1,250,000 worth of harbor bonds in order to develop this part, the Harbor Committee of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday voted to take no further steps in seeking to bring new steamship lines and new industries to Los Angeles until the city has, by authorizing a sale of the securities, guaranteed that necessary harbor work will be done.

Docking facilities for the steamships Yale and Harvard and improvements to enable the Vegetable Oil Products Company to build a large plant at the harbor are included in the emergency work needed to be done at once, Councilman Fleming told the Council, and for this work he said the bonds must be sold at once. The Council will take action as soon as W. B. Matthews, attorney for the Public Service Commissioners and recognized expert on Los Angeles municipal bond issues, reports from New York as to the condition of the bond market.

The Council on Thursday rejected all bids for the bonds which had been solicited by the Finance Committee on a 5.5 per cent. interest basis.

AWARD TO BUILDING COMPANY AFFIRMED.

Department No. 1 of the District Court of Appeal has affirmed the judgment of a jury in Superior Judge Shook's court in favor of the Thomas Haverly Company against G. M. Jones, involving the construction of a four-story reinforced concrete hotel building at Santa Monica. Under the agreement the Haverly Company was to furnish all labor and material for the structure for $15,000. A dispute arose as to the changes in the construction and the responsibility of the architect, that resulted in the Haverly Company suing Mr. Jones for an amount asserted to be due. The jury found for the Haverly company in the sum of $74,477 and Mr. Jones appealed.

He sought to bring a cross-complaint against the Haverly company for damages on account of non-compliance with the contract, but it was ruled out.

TWO BANKRUPTCY CASES.

The petitioning creditors are Edward Robinson, Myers, Darling & Jones for an amount of merchandise sold and delivered, and Harry T. Kemp for money loaned. Various acts of bankruptcy are alleged against Mr. McCormick. W. J. Davis of this city filed a petition in bankruptcy in the United States District Court yesterday. His debts, all unsecured, are given as $7864, and his assets at $250, claimed as exempt from execution.

Executive Positions
from $2500 to $10,000 a year—
sometimes more.

More brains to be a high-salaried executive than to be an underpaid clerk. There are thousands of men building poor-paying jobs who would make WONDERS if they could only get the brains of the executives. They could MULTIPLY their income with exactly the same BRAIN. The executive requires not MORE brains, but TRAINED brains.

ARE MADE. Executives GROW. The executive is made by the minor executives of a few years ago, and nurtured, until one day they "bloom" into full-blown executives. If you can be a stenographer or bookkeeper, you can become an executive.

YOU CAN BECOME AN EXECUTIVE.

Each day is to become a minor executive—an assistant executive. We can give you the start. If unable to purchase a scholarship NOW, you can take the tuition fee by assisting with light office work in our executive school. A new class of future executives is being trained. Anastacio Ruiz, convicted of a statutory offense against a minor girl, was sentenced to San Quentin yesterday by Judge Craig for from one to fifty years. Oral notice of appeal was filed by the defendant's attorneys, Kendrick & Kendrick.

Because, as she testified in Judge Monroe's court yesterday, she discovered her husband, William F. Cunningham, in the apartments of another woman, Mrs. Martha M. Cunningham was granted a divorce. He said she was accompanied by friends, and asked to see Mr. Cunningham, when they arrived at the apartments. Mr. Cunningham was found in bed, with the sheet pulled over his face.
